13th CENTURY

THE START OF SOMETHING UNFORGETTABLE

7

On the site where Grand Hotel Casselbergh now shines, the story of three remarkable buildings began in the 13th century: Huis Casselbergh, De Zeven Torens, and 't Fransche Schild. For centuries, they have formed the backdrop of Bruges' history, from medieval grandeur to urban splendor.

De Zeven Torens, once crowned with seven elegant turrets, was immortalised in the famous painting 'The Seven Wonders of Bruges'. 't Fransche Schild, with its monumental gate dating from 1723, still contributes to the authentic atmosphere that the hotel exudes today.

After years of vacancy, these historic buildings were carefully restored and brought together. Since its opening in 2009, they now form the unique Grand Hotel Casselbergh, a place where past and present collide.

Every architectural detail, from the grand staircases to the ornate ceilings, was meticulously restored to its original splendor, preserving the soul of Bruges within these timeless walls.

HOME OF KING CHARLES II

A remarkable chapter in history unfolded in the 17th century, when King Charles II of England took up residence in Huis Casselbergh during his exile (1656–1659).

8 From this residence in Bruges, he organised his royal household as if he were already on the throne. Here, he forged political and military plans for his return to England, surrounded by loyal nobles and soldiers. It was within these walls that he laid the foundations for the Grenadier Guards and the Life Guards, elite troops that would later play a key role in the Restoration of the Monarchy in 1660, which remains among the most prestigious regiments in the British Army to this day.

For a brief moment, Huis Casselbergh became the beating heart of a future restored kingdom.

HEALTH & TREATMENTS

Our wellness and fitness facilities are located in the historic cellars of Grand Hotel Casselbergh, with the oldest sections dating back to the 13th century. The original stone walls and low arches create a unique, serene ambiance that seamlessly blends history with relaxation.

The authentic wellness area offers a sauna, steam bath and relaxation lounge, complemented by massages available upon request for a complete experience.

Our fitness room, situated in the oldest part of the building, combines historic charm with modern functionality. Equipped with high-quality machines such as a treadmill, cross-trainer, and stationary bike, it provides an inspiring environment to stay active, surrounded by centuries-old architecture.

HISTORIC ROOMS

FAMILY ROOMS

The family rooms of Grand Hotel Casselbergh are located in the authentic, monumental part of the hotel. Here you stay surrounded by history, combined with modern luxury and comfort.

Original features such as high ceilings, ornate cornices and wooden beams contribute to the unique character and timeless elegance of these rooms.

MODERN ROOMS

The modern wing of Grand Hotel Casselbergh provides a contemporary complement to the historic character of the hotel. While these rooms may not carry the same centuries-old history as the monumental section, they offer a unique combination of modern luxury and style.

Designed by a renowned architect, the rear of this wing is inspired by 'the treasure chest of Bruges'. The striking windows, protruding like 'diamonds', form a distinctive architectural feature. These exceptional elements create a playful connection between old and new, while you enjoy bright, spacious and comfortable rooms.
